CONSTELLATION

Your sky

It is still dark. Each session lights it a little.

The faint stars are the nearest ones: a first sit, a first hour of meditation or study, a first week of practice. Nothing to unlock or spend. The sky fills itself as you practise.

CONSTELLATION · COMPONENT

Star states

Stars light themselves from logged practice. State is carried by size, fill and label, never colour alone: lit stars are solid with a halo, next stars are hollow and named, distant stars are bare points. Every star is a 44px tap target.

50h

Lit

Solid core, mana halo, slow twinkle (6s). Name in secondary.

Dawn sit

Lit since last visit

A wider, breathing halo on the next visit only. No badge, no banner.

100h

Next

Hollow ring, name in tertiary. Joined to its lit neighbour by a dotted thread.

Distant

A bare point, no name. Fainter still in a new sky.

Adept

Rank, lit

The brightest stars: four-point spark, serif name, rising above the heart.

Magus

Rank, next

Hollow, serif italic name. Later ranks stay distant.

50h

Selected

Dashed primary ring while its sheet is open; keyboard focus looks the same.

Threads. Fine mana line between lit neighbours; dotted thread from a lit star to the next one. Nothing joins distant stars.

Mage colour. After the first circle, halos and threads take the chosen path: Elemental, Arcane or Spirit.
